TH202 Bibliology - A Systematic Theology for the 21st Century Part 02
from www.GSBaptistChurch.com/theology/th202a/ by Pastor-Rice@GSBaptistChurch.com

Greetings in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ 01/16/2016

Welcome to Bibliology. I have great expectations for this study. Some of you have not taken formal schooling in some time so I want this to be neither formal, nor schooling. Consider us a study group that is going to work through a couple hundred pages of important, exciting, and ground breaking material.

The material for this study is available at the website www.GSBaptistChurch.com/theology/th202a/ . Feel free to download any of it for your offline use. If you have any trouble accessing it please let me know. I can mail it on CDs to those who do not have internet access. There is a moderate amount of reading and the pdf files are accessible on most ebook reading devices.

I hope you can get started this 3rd week of 2017 and follow the weekly schedule for 12 weeks. January 15th – April 8th marks the 12 weeks, but it remains to be seen if I get all the worksheets published in time, and if 12 weeks will actually complete the whole Bibliology effort.

I can use Cisco Webex to hold webinars and meet and interact with each of you. You do not need an account with them to participate in these meetings. Just follow the instructions that come in your email. Your computer may warn you that Cisco's software will take control of computer assets, don't fuss, it uses your microphone and camera if they are available. I am very pleased with Cisco's Webinar environment, I used it to take Hebrew classes from Jerusalem. If you are computer savvy and do open a free Cisco account you can host your own webinars and even webinar with other students in this study. There are other online meeting sites, some are free (<https://www.lytespark.com/>) others not so much (<https://www.gotomeeting.com/>) If you get an email announcing a Cisco meeting, I am still tinkering around with it and your schedules, feel free to join in at your convenience.

The web page has course slides that provide introductory information and worksheets with weekly reading assignments. Please take full advantage. I look forward to hearing from you.

There was a fellow who made a resolution to read more in 2017. He turned the captions on on his television set.

I am still trying to figure out how to best stay in touch and solicit a regular response from each of you involved in this Bibliology study. Biweekly emails will lead, but regular offers that you connect to a Cisco Webex will fill these next couple weeks. If you have trouble connecting please keep trying and let me/others know via email, some have connected successfully so I know it is possible.

The reading assignment for the week is Prolegomena pages 1-28, and Bibliology pages 1-10. If you have any trouble getting the texts please email me.

I greatly appreciate each of you taking part in the Bibliology study group. God Bless.

I greatly appreciate your involvement in the Bibliology Study Group. Even those who have not connected yet have driven me to do my homework. I reorganized the intro and added three sections, The Bible's organization, facts and statistics, and thee's and thou's. You will need to reload the text's to get access to the changes. Also I formatted the whole text into a single spaced 6x9 book format entitled Volume 1 Prolegomena - Bibliology - Theopneustia (340 pgs) find it on the webpage in pdf and in print via lulu next month. (It will be in print because there were some wanting to participate in the study without the advantage of computer access, and some of us can only stand so much computer time.) The text in print mucked up Gausson's Greek, Hebrew and footnotes. I will reformat those in revision #1. In the mean time I reloaded his text in pdf and one might better read that than the new 6x9 format of my Volume 1. Keep reading, keep filling in worksheets, and God bless.

My New Years Resolution was to give up on keeping New Years Resolutions, but I just can't on this one.

Okay the format for my worksheets has changed so that you can do them individually, and these emails, now called “Lessons” are accumulating on the TH202a page so we can all stay on the same page. Please check out the new formats, and web page.

By now I expect that every one has gotten the three texts, Prolegomena, Bibliology, Theopneustia, and done a little reading in each. All three are now available in one 340 pg book via pdf, or paperback via $10 + $10 s/h (see <http://www.lulu.com/spotlight/GSBaptistChurch>).

If I have not heard from you yet, please check in via email, snail mail, phone, or Webinar connection and let me know where you are at and how this study group is working out for your... or not.

Thanks again for doing this, it has been kind of a rough start, but it has been a joy to interact with a few who have connected. Gausson's book alone is worth every penny of your effort. (Um, it was free!)

God Bless

Seminary makes one read things they would not ordinarily read, think things they would not ordinarily think, and say things they would not ordinarily say. It is good for the brain that, on its own, gets tangled in cobwebs and entrenched in ruts. It is not quite seminary, but it does those things, it is tuition free, and it cries out for your participation. Join in on this online Bibliology study group already in progress.

The worksheets listed on www.GSBaptistChurch.com/theology/th202a/ are intended to force your nose into Gausson's remarkable book “Theopneustia.” It is a long lost, hundred-fifty year old Christian classic available to you for free, and it covers every conceivable argument defending God's inspiration of ALL Scripture. An exceptional resource in a day when the modernist ecumenical has stolen and copyrighted their little 'b' bibles and panned them off as Holy Bible. Be wise, participate in this study group. (These incessant emails are meant to keep your nose to the grind wheel as well.)

There is also a much smaller study group learning the Basics of Biblical Greek. It is worth every ounce of your effort to learn the language of the Holy Bible from these high-school Greek notes of Pastor Rice. You don't often get to study Greek with a KJB-only Greek student. Check it out at www.GSBaptistChurch.com/greek

I expect that both these study groups will be interrupted by the rapture and glorious appearance of our Lord Jesus Christ. After all, President Donald Trump has, again this week, wounded the head of the leftist liberal progressive beast; “And I saw one of his heads as it were wounded to death” (Rev 13:3). I hope to hear from you.

This Week's READING#7:Gausson's Theopneustia Ch 3 Sect I Catechism I-XXVII– II [p.106-129]

The 340 page paperback Vol01 containing Prolegomena, Bibliology, and Theopneustia is published. I ordered 7 proof volumes that came in last week. It is so much better than reading a computer screen, but I already have three critique items that will call for revision #1.

#1 The format of the Theopneustia section needs to be reworked. The Gausson's footnotes are inserted into the text with the same font as the text, making it difficult to read, and Gausson's many Greek phrases are in an obscure and unintelligible unicode font making it very confusing to read. I have started reformatting it to a BST-Greek font which is crude but legible. Perhaps then we can use great plainness of speech (πολλῆ παρρησία χρώμεθα).

#2 The Bibliology introduction did not elaborate how Bible critics departed from the doctrine of inspiration by claiming only the autographs were inspired; this major and widespread departure from truth needs a fuller development.

#3 Somewhere in the Bibliology sections Inspiration vs Modernist Paraphrase – Paraphrase Changes the Words, the outrages elimination of “shittim wood” should be expounded. Acacia wood indeed, God said shittim wood, and he says what he means and means what he says. Not a single modernist bible uses God's word here. Check the Hebrew, set the modernist scholars aside and understand what God was saying about the base wood base of the tabernacle's furniture, it was not the fine, exotic, aromatic acacia wood, it actually was more like... and smelled like... well God used the right word. The base wood represents man, the gold that plated it, righteousness, not the very best of refined man, acacia, but the very basest of humanity, shittim wood. This discourse was developed more fully in my work on the tabernacle.

I trust you are enjoying Gausson's complex sentences and extensive vocabulary by now. I said previously that he is worth the effort. He has an extensive defense of the doctrine of inspiration.

If you have any critiques, suggestions or input please pitch in here anywhere.

God Bless. Keep reading, keep worksheeting.

This Week's READING#8:Gaussen's Theopneustia Chapter 3 Catechism XXVIII– XLV [p.129 -152]

On an airplane with the richest man in the world, the smartest man in the world, a Baptist preacher, a Boy Scout, and their FOUR parachutes the pilot came bursting in and yelled “We are going to crash!” He grabbed a parachute and jumped out of the plane.

The richest man in the world jumped up wrote three million dollar checks for the others, grabbed a parachute, and jumped.

The smartest man in the world jumped up and said, “I am the smartest man in the world, I must survive this!” He grabbed a parachute and jumped out.

The preacher said, “Well, son, I have lived a long life, I am ready to meet my Creator, so you take the last parachute and save yourself.”

The Boy Scout smiled at the preacher and said, “Don't worry, preacher, the smartest man in the world jumped out with my knapsack.”

I am not the smartest man in the world, or the sharpest knife in the drawer, but I am so enjoying this Bibliology study. I hope you will too. Perhaps I am enjoying doing the worksheets because I wrote them. I trust you find them doable, and helpful. This third week of February should mark your fourth week of effort, but this is meant to be self paced, so some are not on worksheet #4 yet. I am trying to stay a couple worksheets ahead of everyone... in fact I must. I have just published #8, and got halfway through Gaussen's exceptional book. (I don't know how I will finish in the allotted 12 worksheets.)

A cross-eyed judge sat on the bench. Three defendants came in. The judge looked at the first and asked, “What is your name?” The second one said, “George.” The judge looked at him and said, “I didn't ask you.” The third one said, “I didn't say anything.”

Reviewing more of the Bibliology book, and I can't believe I left out this whole section on copyrights. I really need to fit in this article I wrote earlier.

There is a revision in the works but I will finish the worksheets that fit the version we are reading.

Thanks for your efforts and input.

Pastor Ed Rice

PS Here is the article on copyrights that I need to fit in:

Copyright Bibles Must Be “SIGNIFICANTLY DIFFERENT”

It is meaningful to step back and look at the larger deception that is in place in the modern church. There are a hundred bible versions out there. Each version is copyright and must, by law say something “significantly different” from any other copyright version. They cannot just say the same thing in a different way, they must have a “significantly different” presentation of material. A hundred bible version presenting a hundred versions of what God meant to say produces such a fractured authority that nobody really knows the answer to Pilate's question, “What is truth?” (John 18:38). Every one is thereby allowed to make up their own “interpretation” whereby their distinct personal version of a verse is as valid as anyone else's version.

Case in point, after Pilate's question, “What is truth?”, his next declaration, exactly translated from the Greek, was “I find in him no fault at all.” But copyright requires that quote to change.

Perhaps he said, “I cannot find anything wrong about him.”, as copyright by James A.R. Moffatt D.D., D.LITT., in his 1950 The Bible – A New Translation. But Dr. Moffatt was also thinking that Pilate asked “What does truth mean?”, instead of “What is truth?”

Or was it “I find no guilt in him”, as copyright by The Lockman Foundation, California in their 1960 NASB (NASB is a registered trademark of the same, standing for the New American Standard Version).

Or was it, “For my part, I find no case against him”, as copyright by the Syndics of the Cambridge University Press in their 1961 NEB (NEB is a registered trademark of the same, standing for the New English Bible).

Or was it “I find no crime in him”, as copyright by the World Publishing Company in their 1962 RSV (RSV is a registered trademark of the same, standing for Revised Standard Version).

Or was it “I cannot find any reason to condemn him”, as copyright by the American Bible Society in their 1966 Good News Bible- Today's English Version.

Or was it “Speaking for myself, I find no case against this man”, as copyright by the Confraternity of Christian Doctrine in Washington D.C. in their 1970 NAB (NAB is a registered trademark of the same, standing for New American Bible).

Or was it “I find no basis for a charge against him”, as copyright by the New York Bible Society International in their 1973 NIV (NIV is a registered trademark of the same, standing for New International Version).

Or was it “I don't find this man guilty of anything!”, as copyright by the American Bible Society in their 1995 CEV (CEV is a registered trademark of the same, standing for Contemporary English Version).

Or was it “I find no guilt in him”, as copyright by Crossway in their 2001 ESV (ESV is a registered trademark of the same, standing for English Standard Version).

Many will read all these copyright renditions and repeat Hillary Rodham Clinton's line “What possible difference could it make anyhow!” They might continue, “Pilate found nothing wrong with the dude!” Two important observations on these multiple renditions. First, words are important. Many of the words added by these translators are not represented at all in the Greek New Testament¹. Further, the word used in the Greek, and consequently in the Authorized King James Bible, is exactly the word used to describe the Old Testament passover lamb and/or sin sacrifice which was to be without fault or blemish. But that exact word is carefully avoided by all modern versions. The wide variations in Pilate's modernized declaration certainly come from copyright considerations, but they also show a “fault” in them which is even more diabolical.

This Week's READING#10: Gaussen's Theopneustia Chapter IV Section III [p.164-198]

A new parrot was cursing a blue streak when the Baptist preacher came home. Unsure how to punish such behavior he shut him in the freezer for 2 minutes, took him out and said, “I never want to hear you talk like that again! Any questions?” Two days later the parrot did the same, perhaps worse. After 4 minutes he pulled him out of the freezer and said, “I never want to hear you talk like that again! Any questions?” The parrot said, “No sir.” Three days later, same same, 5 minutes. But this time when the preacher asked, “Any questions?” The parrot said, “Yes sir. What did that turkey say?”

I have said a lot of things about modernists, ecumenicals, and their bibles over the past twenty years. Some may not have fit across the board, some offended the ignorant, some angered a few who didn't have all the facts or the mental resources to comprehend the dilemma. I wish I had spent more time reading Gaussens' Theopneustia - Chapter IV before I entered this onslaught. Whoda thunk a book published in Paris in 1840 (a hundred-and-seventy-six years ago) would have defended inerrancy, infallibility and verbal inspiration of ALL Scripture so completely, AND spoken out so boldly about the purpose and content of various translations.

Gaussen's book is worth every ounce of your effort, and I just added Worksheet #9 “The Translations” to our coursework. God bless you as you dig into this Bibliology effort.

For those just now being exposed to this study group, I encourage you to start at the beginning of the TH202 Bibliology course work. Use the link above or follow the Study Group links from our web page. It is a beta-release of the Bibliology book. But I am enjoying it immensely.

A parrot stared at his new owner not saying a word as the preacher quoted several Scriptures to it. At the pet store he complained, "That bird does not say a single word!" The clerk said "Here buy this little mirror, parrots need to see another bird before they talk." The preacher pulled out his wallet. The next week the preacher said "That bird does not say a single word!" The clerk said "Here but this little bell, parrots need to hear a little ding before they start talking." The preacher pulled out his wallet. The next week the clerk said to the preacher, "Good morning sir, how is that parrot doing?" The preacher said with dismay, "The little guy died yesterday." The clerk said, "I am so sorry to hear that. Did you ever get it to say anything at all?" "Yes, I did, just before it died is said, 'Don't they sell any bird seed at that pet store?'"

I trust this Bibliology study group keeps you feasting on the eternal riches of God's Holy Word. That is its intent. Studies which convince us, all the more, of the great care God has taken to get us an English infallible, inerrant, verbally inspired letter of love, need to enliven the feeding on that Holy Book.

This week I assemble worksheet 10 addressing the Gaussen's superb defense against Bible critics who suppose that various readings defeat inerrancy. It is worth considering that his work was published in 1840 when the most vile of the critics, Brook Westcott and Fenton Hort were just kids. His work should have hit the poignant nail on the head, but they never read it. Don't make the same mistake. This week's chapter of Gaussen's Theopneustia clarifies the moral depravity of the KJB critics and correctors, even before they had the abominable Nestle Aland Greek New Testament which relies on the W&H, infidels, hyper-critical work. It is a good read.

God bless your efforts.

Reading assignment 11: Gaussen's Theopneustia Chapter IV Section IV-VII [p.198-274]

The mother of identical twins fell on such hard times she put both boys up for adoption. A Latino couple adopted one and named him Juan; an Arabic couple the other and named him Emal. After thirteen years the mom was desperately searching to find them both but could only find the Latino couple. Her new husband was consoling her, and said, "It is okay, sweetheart, they are identical twins, if you've seen Juan, you've seen Emal."

I expect you have never seen anything quite like Gaussen's book Theopneustia. Worksheets #11 through 13 cover the last three chapters, and I am hurriedly putting them together while sitting by the Mediterranean Sea, in Mazara del Vallo, Italy, where I am visiting my son, Missionary Shane Rice. I will not be successful in the endeavor, but will enjoy it more than I could describe here. Keep reminding yourself that Gaussen wrote a hundred-and-seventy years ago, and thoroughly nailed out every argument that the modernists used to copyright 300 new English versions of ecumenical Bibles. It is truly an amazing piece of work, which clarifies that they did attack a doctrine with their criticisms, they attack the doctrine of plenary inspiration.

Worksheet #11 should be posted this week. I hope you can get to it before the Lord returns.
God bless your efforts.

Shane recommended Jack Morman “8,000 Differences Between the N.T. Greek Words of the King James Bible and the Modern Versions Hardcover – April 12, 2008 by Jack Moorman ” Amazon hard cover $29 This is a superb scholarly work that demonstrates the significant differences between the the New Testament Greek texts of Westcott and Hort, Nestle/Aland, or United Bible Societies and the Greek Words underlying our King James Bible. The difference are in the Greek Words, but the English translations are also given to show where the changes affect translation. There are over 356 of these differences that affect BIBLE DOCTRINES in one way or another. (Jack also wrote “Forever Settled, a Survey of the Documents and History of the Bible” Paperback – March 8, 2008 $23 via Amazon This book is a classic. It is an exhaustive examination of the history of the Bible--from the time that it was breathed out by God, through its various stages of transmission, down to its present form in our day. It was written by a Bible college professor who is now a missionary. It recognizes that the promises within Scripture declare just as forcibly its preservation as it does its inspiration--that both are supernatural. It is here that his book stands. It is trusted that it will meet the need for a fuller treatment from this viewpoint.

Brother Rice,

Attached is a completed copy (PDF) of my worksheets for weeks four and five. I appologize for not being able to meet with you this past week. I was sick all week and am now just getting better. Let me know when you will be available this week.

As for your comments regarding autographs, I have taken it to heart and re-examined my previous answer (#6) on worksheet #2, regarding defining autograph. Here is the reworked answer:

"Something written in a person's own hand, as a manuscript or letter. The original Biblical writings/ manuscripts given by God to man. These original autographs have been preserved, through the writings/manuscripts referred to as the Hebrew Masoretic Text and the Greek Received Text (textus receptus)."

I believe this enhances my views as discussed previous. I look forward to discussing this further with you.

Regarding being able to make PDF files, I use Ubuntu Linux as my computer operating system. It is an open source operating system and features great software for free. Some of the software, such as LibreOffice, allows a user to export files as PDF's. That is how I am able to perform this function so seamlessly.

God bless,

Jason

Lee,

Thanks for calling. Thanks for studying with us. And thanks for going through the Greek with me. It is "evolving" into a worthwhile and doable study with your zeal and input. I have marked my progress report for your Bibliology work. No need to send in worksheets unless you have questions or an overtly phenomenal answer you wish to display. I will give you an excused absence tonight with a promise that I will be praying over, and envying, every day you spend on this trip.

God Bless. See you in March.

Ed

PS I mailed your paperback "Prolegomina, Bibliology, and Theopneustia" today, expect it when you get back.

I will be working on the Greek, week five material tomorrow. It is amazing that I can now write out the complete alphabet in small case and about 70 percent of the Capitals. I have the vowels and phonic sounds memorized. I am also able to write out all the diphthongs and make the phonic sounds. Still having difficulty with syllabification of Greek words. Reading is very slow.
